DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jarvinen et al EP 0843301 A2) in view of Solve et al (US Patent No. 5,485,522).

3. Regarding claims 1-31, Jarvinen et al teach

Providing comfort noise parameter values to generate comfort noise at page 6,

Producing modified comfort noise parameters at page 6, lines 24-25

Using the modified comfort noise parameters to produce comfort noise at page 6,

Background noise parameter is a spectrum parameter at Figure 2C; page 6, lines
23-50

Obtaining variable background noise information at page 9, line 45 – page 10, line 4

Computing mean value background parameters at page 7, line 21 – page 8, line 33

Producing deviation values at page 7, line 21 – page 8, line 33

Implementation in a cellular telephone at page 12, lines 26-28

Art Unit: 2654

Background noise parameters varying over time at page 9, line 45 – page 10, line 4

Using background noise parameters to calculate filter coefficients at page 6, lines 26-43.

Jarvinen et al do not specifically teach that the noise variability is used to perturb the comfort noise parameters. However, using noise variability information to modify signals is well known in the art. Refer to Solve, who disclose a system for adaptively reducing noise in speech signals which implements a variable attenuator and noise estimator and continuously updates and adapts a noise estimate (col. 3, line 55 continuing to col. 4, line 11). Solve teaches that the system may be advantageously applied to telecommunication systems without significantly increasing data processing overhead (abstract).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to modify the comfort noise generation system of Jarvinen et al and implement noise variation estimation to perturb signal information as taught by Solve, for the purpose of providing added noise reduction in the telecommunication system without increasing data processing overhead.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-8, 11-19, 21-22, 24-29 and 31 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
